^[2] Transfers from the 703 Account represented the sole funding for the Lehman 435 Account. On 8/15/2007, there was one transfer of $9,900,000 from the BONY 621 Account to the Lehman 435 Account, which was used the next day to purchase $10 million worth of Treasury Bills that were immediately transferred out of the account. See SECSAH0001341 – 42.

^[3] Certain statements for the Lehman 435 Account included two months of activity in one statement, including July/Aug 2007, Oct/Nov 2007, Jan/Feb 2008, April/May 2008 and July/Aug 2008. For the first month in each of these periods, I have included the account values reflected on the prior month account statement.

^[4] In September 2008, $100 million worth of Treasury Bills was transferred to the JPMC G 13414 Account, the same custody account that held the Treasury Bills purchased directly from the 703 Account.
